

Diversifying our prayer

A few weeks ago, I was reading Psalm 4, and was struck that in the opening verse David demands that God hears his prayer!

*Answer me when I call to you,
my righteous God.*

*Give me relief from my distress;
have mercy on me and hear my prayer. (Psalm 4:1)*

When was the last time I did the same? I cannot remember! Scanning over the two open pages before me I wondered - how often do I pray like the Psalms? Sure, they are highly poetic, breathed out by the Spirit of God (2 Timothy 3:16), and humanly speaking, probably written down, crafted and edited before being shared. But the range of ways God is addressed puts me to shame.

It was another reminder of how the Scriptures can expand our prayer vocabulary. For there is a transforming and renewing of our mind which takes place as we pray through each part of the Bible, particularly those which are explicitly prayers.

We may readily list the concerns of our hearts and minds, and pray for them. But reading and praying through scripture grows us to pray beyond ourselves.

Imagine if you prayed to God about your material concerns, anxieties, joys in a similar way to the last 3 verses of Psalm 4. Pray through Scripture and you can learn to do so. What a privilege it is to approach God with such confidence brought by our salvation in Jesus Christ, trained and shaped by the words that God has given to us.

Many, LORD, are asking, "Who will bring us prosperity?"

Let the light of your face shine on us.

*Fill my heart with joy
when their grain and new wine abound.*

*In peace I will lie down and sleep,
for you alone, LORD,
make me dwell in safety. (Psalm 4:6-8)*
